

The following is a possible answer to the question: "Why be moral?"

It is a good idea to be moral because it helps you to live a better life. Being moral means following rules and doing what is right. This helps you to get along with other people and to live in a peaceful and happy society. If you are not moral, you will have problems with other people and you will not be able to live in a good society. Being moral also helps you to feel good about yourself and to be proud of what you have done. It is a good idea to be moral because it helps you to live a better life.